The Exhibition Yesterday. The rainy and unpleasant weather of the first half of the week, gave place yesterday to golden sunshine and genial airs. As a consequence of the agreeable change, there was a large gathering of people at the Fair grounds to see the horses entered for the various premiums. We have attended a good many such exhibitions, and we can say with entire confidence that this one surpasses them all. . The number of horses on exhibi tion is very large, and their quality superior Some of the trials of speed yesterday were intensely, exciting, and it would be difficult to find anywhere more superb specimens of the horse genus than were to be seen on our Fair grounds.

To-day is to be the great day of the exhi bition. The track is now in very fine order; the entries for the different prizes are numerons; the competition cannot fail to be spirited; and the show will be abundantly worth seeing. We hope, therefore, that our citizens generally will attend the exhibition, and by their pressure and sympathy give aid and encouragement to the public spirited gentlemen who have this enterprise in charge. They have succeeded in getting up a aplandid show of horses, and they deserve the hearty commendation and efficient help of all Milwaukes.

THE stale libel on CARL SCHURZ has at last reached the Sheboygan Journal. From that the Eastern Democratic sheets are apologizing for having uttered the falsehood, this not only gives the whole thing entire but actually gives a column of lamentable howls over the degeneracy of the great German erator. Court. His wife was also lost on the Elgin. On Wednesday a body was found on the lake shore at Racine, supposed to be one of the victims of the Lady Elgin disaster. It was that of a German woman, 25 or 30 years of age. She had on a hoop skirt, a small oheok delaine dress; her chemise was plaited like a bosom to a man's shirt. She had on a plain gold ring, marked on the inside of same, " June 21st, 1859," a pair of gaiters with heels on the same ; by the looks of the buttons they appear new. She measured about five feet 6 inches. The remains are much distigured. She had a black cord around her neck, with a small obsin attuched. The Coroner of Racine has kept a part of the dress and the shoes. Chief BECK received a despatch from Wankegan yesterday afternoon, that the body of a man had been found at Wanke gan, who was about 5 feet 4 inches high, and had on checked pants, white shirt, and one $2,00 bill, and one $1,00 bill in his pockets

Chief Beck has telegraphed to Mr. PORTER at Wankegan, to bury the body, and send him a full description of the body by mail. A letter from Postmaster Barns, of Grand Haven, to Mayor Lynne, dated Oct. 31, says :-" One of the bodies of the Elgin disaster has just been brought in here by the achooner Active. It has been as decently interred as dissumstances would permit By papers found on his body, we find his name to be R. E. Comerfort. His effects are in the hands of Timothy Fletcher, of this place." Mr. COMERFORT was clerk for R. G. Owns, of the Lake Brewery, and was a member of the Light Guard. He was a young man of irreproachable character, and much esteemed by all who knew him.

There are, then, theories to account for the formation

The first is that it is derived from the rocks by the erosion of water currents .--This theory supposes repeated sudden elevation of the land in the Artie regions and du Chien. Stations at all important intermedial the consequent rush of waters toward the equator. This theory has lew advocates. The second is the feeberg theory. According to this theory, the drift was strewn over the submerged land by icebergs, charged with detritus, floating away from the hills and mountains on the North, that were submerged, as they now are in the Arctic seas and Atlantic Ocean. The grooving and polishing of the rocks was accomplished by the grating of the earthly matter fixed in the ebergs, as they floated away to the South. size. of the drift,

The third is the glacial theory. This is the theory which Agassiz adopts. This country was substantially the same as now, temperature, and plateaux of ice were formed cure it from their grocer or storekeeper at once. Man acknowledge the receipt of $170.29 from the in all the highlands which sent down their ice streams through the valleys, as the glaclers of the Alps. The ice is pushed downward by gravity, and by the expansion the water percolating through the pores of The lecturer commented on the experi ments of Fornes, and the observations of Acassiz upon the Alpine glaciers, proving the riscous character of ice. The ice, in its movement, adapts itself to the surface of the rocks beneath, and thus polishes and greoves them. It heaps up masses of detritus before point, where the advancing front of the glamasses of matter are called "terminal moraines," The masses accumulated at the side of the glacier are called "lateral moraines." There are moraines in Connectiout and Scotland similar to those of the Alps. According to Agassiz there were many centres of glacial action on this continent, from which ice streams radiated in all directions. Although the temperature of the wo continents was greatly depressed during the glacial period, yet the extent southward of the drift in America to thirty five of north latitude, while in Europe it extends only to fifty degrees, shows that the isothermal lines of the two continents were relatively the same

At the close of the glacial period, the continents were submerged, and the unstratified drift-the product of glacial action-was rearranged and formed into stratified drift by ocean currents. The remains of the mammoth and mastoden are found in the unstratified drift. This constitutes an exception, perhaps, to the rule first stated in reference to the fossils of the only of marine and lacustrine origin.

drift. The fossile of the stratified drift, are The above is only a rough draft of the contents of the lecture. It abounded in well drawn inferences, that shed new light on this most recondite of geological topics.

The citizens of this city ought to take a greater interest in the Natural History Association. Its meetings occur on the first and third Tuesday of every month, and almost every meeting is marked by valuable communications on scientific sul jects.

CHINA TEA WHEAT .- Mr. HENEY PALM me has shown us a very fine sample of China Tea Spring Wheat, raised on his farm in the town of Wauwatosa, which yielded furty-three bushels to the acre, and weighed 64 pounds to the bushel. He sawed it before the frost was well out of the ground, and to this he attributes the unusually large yield, as some of the same description sown later in the season within a few miles of his farm yielded but 26 lushels to the acre .-His theory is, that sowing wheat early in the spring, it necessarily partakes to some extent of the qualities of winter wheat.

We publish this morning and commend to the attention of our readers the admirable speech delivered by Senator Seward to the people of Kansas a few days age. It was listened to by a crowd of six or eight thousand Freemen with absorbing attention, and will be read by tens of thousands with unqualified approval. It is a masterly vindication of the Republican party and policy, and is impregnable alike to the arguments and speech delivered it would reach its end long before this period; but the people the way that period; but the people the way and the form the footsteps of the slave, was pronounced by the highest power of the Government as much a slave State as South Carolina. The flag of the United States was made the haribinger, not of Freedom, but of Human Bondage. is impregnable slike to the arguments and is impregnable alike to the arguments and the misreprecentations of Sham Demogracy.

Many of those who heard this speech at Lawrence had been through the whole of the Kansas troubles and had suffered and bled in the cause of freedom. This and the fact that he apoke on the very apot where "Border Ruffanism," under the flag of Squatter Sovereignty," had perpetrated one squatter Sovereignty," had perpetrated one chusetts, and made the Federal Governments and the interest of the United States. der to have Slavery in Kansas, she did not see how futtle would be her efforts. Missou-ri obtashed these concessions for Slavery from the General Government, not because ri obtasned these concessions for Slavery from the General Government, not because the people of the United States love Slavers, but because they love the Union.

But all the efforts of the slave power were defeated by bands of emigrants from New England, from New York, from Germany and Ireland—who came up the Missoni river, fearless of cannons, and found the slaveholders here armed; and they drove them out of the Territory and established here what is called an "Abolition" Territory—making a place for connection by the "Underground Railroad" with every slave State! Who would have believed that this could have been done, and that we should have met here to day to adebrate it with all kinds of demonstrations—by the firing of cannon, by dinners, and balls—and the Union bejust as safe now as it was before. [Chests.]

Another consideration. It is not our choice, fellow-citizens, that our lot as a propie is cast upon a continent, and that we are so constituted that in spite of curselves we must become, sooner or later, the possessuis of the whole Continent of North America, from Hadson's Bay to the Galf of Mexico, from the Pacific to the Atlantic sport.

of the whols Continent of North America, from Hadson's Bay to the Galf of Maxico, from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast.— France and Spain and Great Britain, who fermenly occupied vast passessions on this Continent, have been gradually giving way. rettring. Every year they are weater, and it is only a question of fifty or a hundred years, before we shall be masters of the American Confederacy or Republic.

Now, a government which is to be extended over a confederacy ed over a continent, needs wealth; it needs riches. A great government needs wealth in proportion to its extent; its people must have wealth as an element of their happiness and prosperity. It is utterly contemptible and ridiculous to suppose that the continent of North America, instead of being peopled by free men, who are willing to take it at forly acres spices and enrich it—instead of forly acres spices and enrich it—instead of this, we ought to turn off all these free laborers, and get slaves from Africa at two hundred dellars a head. What wealth have they in the playe States? I much mistake if the people of Kansas would, ten years hence, exchange their wealth for that of the Old Domiulon—slaves included.

Oreat nations require something more than wealth; they nad intelligence, visor and any greal compromise of 1820 was made, and Kansas given up to Slarery. Three million live hundred thousand dollars was a larger sum, but nobody then or ever proposed to confiscate it. They were to be left free to sell their slaves; they were at liberty to keep them, so only that they should import and make no more. There was no need of confiscating the slaves in Missouri any more than there was in Missouri any more than there was in Missouri any more than there was in Massachusetts. Con necticut, New York, New Jersey and Penn gylvania, so this $8,500,000 was never in ij-copardy.

Xow, fellow citizens, even if it had been confiscated, how small a sacridee of property it was, weighed against the inestentable blessings of Freedom over the American continent. Look now at the advant ges resulting from their success, and see how unavailing from their success, and see how unavailing from their success, and see how unavailing the number of the recks are piled in native deformity, but in massive strength, and upon whose summits I found the runs of the palaces of Nero and Domitian, yet when I make a covern in the rock-bound shore, I

[Original.] ANOISNE IN HEAVEN

One morning bright,

To realms of light

Her face wee fair,

Fair was her hair,

Her soul without a stain.

The angels sweet,

With smiles did greet

They wreathed her hair

The stranger, fair and mild;

With flowers falt-

A harp they gave the child.

Then all did sing,

With music's sweetest strain:

"Welcome above

· Thou gentle dove

In the Redeemer's name."

She dried tach tear

That did appear, At thought of her dear home,

To sing the song

In realms of love,

Till we shall join

That choir divine

In life's unending day.

Then is ned the throse

Around the Saviour's throne.

She chaunts the saintly lay,

In the afternoon it was difficult to purchase day at the advanced prices, receivers holding at still higher figures, and one ship-per who was under the necessity of buying 10,000 bus No. 1 to complete a cargo had to pay 93%. Aside from this transaction, however, there were no buyers in the market giving more than 92s for No. 1, and 91c for No. 2 in store. The sales of Club and Extra did not exhibit any material change, and were very moderate. Flour was tolerably active and in good request at $4,-65@4,75 for fair to good country Extra, and $5 for buggs, to for fair to good country Extra, and 35 for fair you dity Extra. Bales amounted to about 1,600 biles of the arrival of a large fact of vessels last night and to day considerably accelerated the downward movement in grain freights, and this afternoon there was a plump decline of $2$ in rates. The schra, W. cently moved into their new and palatial stores of East Water atreet, also carry on extensive jobbing departments. Including these the list of our wholetale Dry Goods Houses is as follows; SEXTON BROTHERS & Co.: YOUNG & FRENCH;

JAMES BONNELL; H. STERN & BRO., Опав. Киррив; J. L. DAYIS: Начентя & Спармая. The above list embraces some of the most extensiv sholesule dry goods establishments west of New York Young & FRENCH, whose pard appears in our savertiing columns this morning, may soon be classed. Mr Wat P. Young, who is one of the firm, is a large property holder, and one of the pioneer merchants of Milwaukes. Since 1857 Mr. Youxo has been chiefly employed in improving his real estate. When he retired from mercantile life at that time he had built a large and lucrative trade, and now that he is buck in the harness again, many of his numerous old customers throughout the Northwest, will doubtless be glad of the opportunity of renewing his acquaintance. The other member of the firm, Oavis Fernell, late of Franch, Brothess & Co., is a gentleman of long expedence in the trade, and is well known both at the rence in the rate, and week some and well adapted to the business, in Quentur's new blook, Nos. 69 and 71 Last Water street. They have already a large supply of new goods on hand, comprising every variety of dry goods and Yankee notions wanted in that line by the country trade, and it is their laten-tion to keep as extensive an assortment of goods on hand as any other 'establishment of the kind in this

FOREIGN CHOPS AND OUR MANS NARRET.

The excitement in the grain markers, notice I in our last workly review, has since then subsided, and prices have somewhat recovered. The lates: news from throps is not so favorable for the crops, and it is recognized on all sides that even the weather throughout the remainder of the season will not make the crop an average one, after all the west weather that has prevailed. It is already apparent that neath of the large will be the state of the large will be successful to the state of the poor in quality, and will require to be mixed with Greign grain to oe fit for use. Those facts have fed to lucreased firmness in our grain markets; string one of two days last week besiness was transacted at a considerable ndvance on previous quotations. It is hardly likely, however, that any advance in wheat or flow will be perumanent. Considering the great crop in the West, prices are already too high, as to Kingland, we have already sent a good deal of stuff a roses the water—meany $18,000 bold worth more than we sent daring the corresponding period of 1850—and fiterals and Austra are likewise horecasing their shipments to British ports.

The starms which were prevalent a few weeks since sh ports.

The alarms which were prevalent a few weeks since sith researd to the miscaled done to the growing culture. rrap by the drouth in the South, have at learth been allayed, and southern correspondents are hegicaing once more to indulge in sanguine estimates of the crop of 1800. It will probably turn but that the tales of injury by the drough were greatly exaggerated, and that the trop, though perhaps not presher than that of 1859, will prove a large one. Our market, like those of England, are thoughn in Manchester the demand improves weekly. Nothing can preven a very active demand, indeed, for auton in Europeand in all probability an advacue in prices during the exact vertex months, except a general war growing out of the pending compilications in Italy.
